

Mayors Report

This last couple of months for been rather quiet on the civic front, as August generally is, but there were a few entertaining useful and events which I attended.

At the end of July I was asked to attend the assembly at St Edmonds School to talk about the councils roll in the community.

The children there had spent the day working in and around the town doing community work, and, a very good job they did working at the play park on the common and the church yard at St Edmonds.

We had the Bungay Festival, a great couple of weeks for the town, encompassing many organisations and events, though at times the weather tried its hardest to intervene.

Alice and I attended the Mayors Reception at Beccles hosted by Hugh Taylor a very jolly evening, and, once again, a chance to meet with neighboughing councils to discuss how things are going and to exchange a few Ideas on almost every aspect of council business.

Hannah, my daughter and I attended a fantastic evening at St Marys Church listening to the life of Alfred Munnings.

This was the start of the Munnings exhibition at St Marys Church which includes many items from the Munnings museum in Dedham and is well worth a visit.
